How New Zealand Protects Its Nature

Why does the kiwi need protection?

Look at the kiwi and the stoat.

What connection do these animals have?

Why can an introduced predator threaten native wildlife?

Key vocabulary for today

predator: an animal that hunts and kills other animals for food native: naturally living in a particular place pest: an unwanted animal or insect that causes problems

trap: a device used to catch and hold animals

affordable: cheap enough to buy

PREDICT BEFORE YOU LISTEN

What could “Predator Free 2050” mean?

Think about introduced predators, native birds, eggs, and nests.

Share your prediction with a partner.

LISTENING 1 · 0:00–2:30

Find the main idea and two details.

01

What is the main goal of Predator Free 2050?

02

Why are rats, stoats, and possums dangerous for New Zealand?

Source: The Kiwi AI tech saving our native bush from pests — RNZ.

LISTENING 2 · 5:00–8:00

Take notes while you listen.

Compare your answers with a partner before class feedback.

How does it help?

How does the new AI technology help?

What can it do?

What can it identify, trap, or monitor?

LISTENING 3 · 15:00–17:00

True or false?

> The technology is cheap and easy for everyone to use.

What is the biggest problem for local communities?

CHECK YOUR UNDERSTANDING

What did we learn?

01

The goal

The goal is to remove introduced predators by 2050.

02

The danger

Predators can kill native birds and destroy eggs and nests.

03

The AI role

AI can identify predators, activate traps, and monitor forests.

04

The challenge

The technology is expensive, so affordability matters.

ROUND-TABLE DISCUSSION

How should communities protect nature?

Work in groups. Discuss the cost of protection, personal responsibility, and lessons for your country.

High-tech solutions or simple local projects?

What can ordinary people do every day?

Does your country face similar environmental problems?

SPEAK WITH EVIDENCE

Speak like a confident environmentalist

Use at least two phrases in your group discussion.

01

From my point of view...

02

I totally agree with the idea that...

03

I see your point, but I think...

04

In my country, for example...